

Mansion Display Update: Second Floor Landing

March 18, 2025

On Monday, March 17, the painting Portrait of Paul I as a Child (c. 1758) was removed for conservation from its home above the cabinet to the left of the snooze room door, on the landing at the top of the stairs. The Collections team expects it will be off view for some time, and we will update the volunteer website when it is back on view.

For information on this painting, please see the image and description below:

Portrait of Paul I as a Child

St. Petersburg, Russia

c. 1758

Oil on canvas

Bequest of Marjorie Merriweather Post, 1973

Object number: 51.61

Grand Duke Paul Petrovich as a child, three quarter length. He is wearing a cap with feather, brocade jacket and a shirt under it with lace cuffs and the ribbon, badge and star of the order of St. Andrew and order of St. Alexander Nevsky. Holds a document in both hands.